Darling Wifie Mine:

Just received your darling Saturday's letter with the wonderful clipping. My! but you sure do look winsome! Believe me, Lovie dear, I sure am anxiously awaiting Saturday. I had intended to make yesterday's letter the last, but as you assured me that you will get this on Thursday, I wanted to please you, and therefore am writing again. I sure am glad that everything is turning out so nicely & smoothly. Am glad, too, that you will attend to the baggage quite early.

Honey love, I don't know what to think of Mom dear's condition. I thought sure she would be out by Saturday last, but I hope she can get out before you leave. Maybe it's because you are leaving that bothers her, undoubtedly, as she must be thinking of the time she will leave to come here. God, but I would love to hear that she is well and out of the hospital. I am continually trying to find something for her so that she can come here.

When you leave Love land, assure Mom dear that we are going to try our hardest for her early arrival, and that she shouldn't worry but take things easy. I certainly do intend to have her come down here with the family. Remember me to her and give her my love. Tell Rose to continue her good work & as soon as I can I'll take things in hand. It may take a little time yet, but I hope not too ~~not~~ long. Also tell Lolly to behave himself & be a little decent.

Well, honey love, I am anxiously awaiting my live love letter. Toots love, I only take my list to furnish the flat as nicely as possible and hope you won't be disappointed. Always remember, sweetheart, that I tried to please you, & if you find things are not what you expected, I pray you will not mind, for as soon as possible, we will fix up the place as an attorney's home, in the good old fashioned way.

Honey love, I will close now, again wishing you a pleasant trip & with hopes & prayers that you arrive safely into my arms, & with all my love, hugs & kisses,

Ever lovingly
your Yanny
Hubby
